Parent Perspectives on Life with a Child with Diabetes

Bringing Science Home is recruiting parents who have a child or young adult with Type 1 Diabetes to participate in a research study.

This research study is designed to gain feedback from parents of children and youth with Type 1 Diabetes to understand their perceptions of living with diabetes and their needs as parents. Information from this research will guide product and program development.

We are seeking participants for focus groups and interviews.

If you are interested in participating, please contact Nicole Johnson or Stephanie Melton at BringingScienceHome@gmail.com or 813-396-2677.